On the Cover

On the cover is the Medieval Russian Icon, The Trinity, by Andrei Rublev. The subject is the Old Testament story in which Abraham receives three visitors as he camps by the oak of Mamre. Rublev puts the three gold-winged figures around a white table on which a golden chalice-like bowl contains a roasted lamb. The artist has given us many symbols in the icon including the angels' staffs and his deliberate color choices. The most important symbol, however, is his composition. The painting is composed in a circle around the table, focusing the viewers' attention on the chalice-bowl at the center—meant to remind us of an altar at Communion.
