A PASTORAL MOMENT WITH FATHER JIM

I never really appreciated Mr. Rogers years ago. My introduction was watching it with my little sister, Kathleen, in 1969. I got home early from high school. It was a cute show and warm and friendly. But until recently, I never appreciated the prophet that Rev. Fred Rogers was.

Mr. Rogers talked about life having “modulations.” Modulations of life can be stressful. It means change for children. A child’s first time at school can be scary, so Fred had a show which featured a school the size of a doll house. He pointed out all the rooms and the cafeteria. But then he took us into a real school to meet a teacher. While talks with the teacher, she share that she had children at home. This was to teach the children watching that the teacher was a human being just like them. His sweater and change of shoes at the opening song “It’s a Wonderful Day in the Neighborhood” set a relaxing tone. He helped the children deal with anger. We could all use that lesson again. He would ask “What do you do with the mad you feel?” In one episode, he blew up a balloon and slowly let the air out. He was telling us that we need to release the anger in a peaceful way, perhaps talking about it. Again, we could use a man like him today.

He had a puppet figure names “King Friday.” When other puppets would complain about the kingdom to King Friday, the king would say “I don’t have to make changes. I am on top.” Pointing out the arrogance of certain leaders and how life is not fair about the situation, an adult would think about the Vietnam War and the Civil Rights movement.

Fred made subtle statements about inclusivity. Different racial groups had parts in the show including a gay man. That was something quite radical for the 1970’s. He washed a black man’s feet in response to a fight about integrating a swimming pool in North Carolina. Mr. Rogers respected everyone. The statement “I like you as you are!” stands out as well as “Don’t let people make you less than you are” and “Look at all the people helping you” as a way of giving thanks.

In Exodus, we see that our God gave us bread for the journey. In John 6 we see that Jesus is the bread for our journey. Whenever you celebrate Communion and the Lord’s Supper, it does support us in the journey of life. But some times people are bread for our journey. Mr. Rogers was like that. He got us through “modulations” of life.

“The thinkg the church needs most today is the ability to heal wounds and to warm the hearts of the faithful; it needs nearness, proximity. I see the church as a field hospital after battle...heal the wounds. Heal the wounds and you have to start from the ground up.” Pope Francis
